The Frost Place is Featured on NHPR "Giving Matters" Radio Spot sponsored by NH Charitable Foundation

The Frost Place was recently featured on NH Public Radio's radio spot "Giving Matters" produced in partnership with the NH Charitable Foundation. They interviewed long-time Conference on Poetry and Teaching participant, Ruth Harlow, about her experience at the conference and her passion for teaching and poetry.

Ruth Harlow, also known as Ms. Purple, is a singer and recently retired as a teacher from Holderness Central School in Holderness, NH. She taught 5th grade science and language art and never thought that was an odd combination. Having always used poetry in her classes, The Frost Place Conference on Poetry & Teaching was the perfect fit. She continues to offer poetry appreciation and writing opportunities.

The Glessner Museum Connected to Frost

The Glessner House Museum recently featured an article about The Frost Place on their blog. The Glessner Family lived on a grand estate, The Rocks Estate, about 10 miles from Robert Frost's former home around the same time that Frost and his family lived in Franconia, NH. Both families crossed paths during their time in Northern NH.

Getting Ready for Fall at The Frost Place

During the fall foliage season at The Frost Place, we extend our hours to welcome visitors from across the country and from around the world.

The changing leaves are stunning, and what better place to view them than from Robert Frost's former front porch.

Contact us about scheduling your tour at the museum. We can accommodate large groups and provide private tours. Office: 603-823-5510
